ANTI-BULLYING POLICY STATEMENT

Oxford International College acknowledges its responsibility to protect all students against bullying. The aim of the Oxford International College anti-bullying policy is to prevent bullying of any sort and to ensure that every member of the college community can operate in a supportive, caring and safe environment without fear of being bullied.

All members of the community, including members of the SLT, teaching and non-teaching staff, teachers, students and parents should understand what bullying is and be familiar with the school policy on bullying, therefore the aim of the policy is:

- To demonstrate that the college takes bullying seriously and that it will not be tolerated.
- To take measures to prevent all forms of bullying in the college, residences and on off-site activities.
- To support everyone in their actions to identify and protect those who might be bullied.
- To demonstrate to all that the safety and wellbeing of students is enhanced by dealing positively with bullying.
- To promote an environment where it is not an offence to tell someone about bullying.
- To promote positive attitudes in students and staff.

This policy reflects the requirements of the current National Minimum Standards for Boarding Schools, including Standard 15 (Promoting Positive Behaviour), Standard 16 (Preventing Bullying) and Standard 17 (Promoting Good Relationships). It should be read alongside the College's Safeguarding, Behaviour and Online Safety policies and supports compliance with the Equality Act 2010.

DEFINITION OF BULLYING

Bullying is defined as any behaviour that is:

- Repeated.
- Intended to hurt someone either physically or emotionally.
- Often aimed at certain groups, e.g. because of race, religion, gender or sexual orientation.

Examples of unacceptable behaviour include:

- Physical (including sexual) assault.
- Verbal abuse, by name calling, teasing or making offensive remarks.
- Cyber-bullying which is defined as the use of ICT, by an individual or group, in a way that is intended to upset others. Examples include using social websites, mobile phones, text messaging, photographs, video and e-mail.
- Indirect emotional tormenting by excluding from social groups or spreading malicious rumours.

Students may be picked-on for a variety of reasons. Bullying is often motivated by prejudice. Studies show a weight of evidence that those being bullied find it difficult to defend themselves (often due to age, position and/or capability physical, emotional or verbal), and often seemingly minor instances of harm can be hugely exacerbated by them being repeated over a period of time.

Bullying may also involve complicity that falls short of direct participation by, for instance, manipulating a third party to tease or torment someone, or by third parties ignoring it. It may be overt and intimidatory but is also often hidden and subtle.

Within the OIC community, which is drawn from many different parts of the world, there is a wide range of students and so bullying is rarely the result of simple gratification but can sometimes be linked to pre-existing inter-cultural animosities. This policy covers a number of aspects of a person's characteristics, including (but not restricted to) actions or comments that are:

- Racist,
- Religious,
- Cultural,
- Ethnicity,
- Homophobic,
- Transphobic,
- Sexist,
- Sexual,
- Gender,
- Which focus on disabilities or other physical attributes (such as hair colour or body shape); or
- Make any reference to special educational needs.

BULLYING MUST BE DEALT WITH

The seriousness of bullying cannot be emphasized enough. Bullying is among the top concerns that parents have about their children's safety and wellbeing at college.

Bullying is also a major concern of young people themselves. Bullying makes the lives of its victims a misery: it undermines their confidence and self-esteem, destroys their sense of security, and can also be psychologically damaging. Bullying often severely impacts on its victims' attendance and attainment at school, marginalizes those groups who may be particular targets for bullies, and can have a lifelong negative impact on some young people's lives. At worst, bullying has been a factor in student suicide.

Bullying, therefore, is an anti-social behaviour, is unacceptable and will not be tolerated by the college.

Everyone in the community is responsible for reporting any bullying incident that comes to their attention, and these reports will always be taken seriously.

PROMOTION OF POSITIVE BEHAVIOUR

It is acknowledged that bullies may have complex reasons for their behaviour and may well need help. It should also be recognised that the consequences of them being allowed to 'get away with it' can be detrimental to them, as well as to their victim. All students at Oxford International College, therefore, deserve the opportunity to be helped to understand what acceptable behaviour is. Changing the attitude and behaviour is an important part of the college ethos.

Consequently, the college promotes a programme promoting positive behaviour for all members of the college. Staff should encourage students at all times to behave in an acceptable manner and include elements of this both within lesson and during the conduct of all activities on college property, accommodation or whilst representing the college on any trip, visit or sports event.

ANTI-BULLYING MEASURES FOR STAFF

What to look for

Students who are being bullied may show changes in behaviour, such as becoming shy and nervous, feigning illness, taking unusual absences or clinging to adults. There may be evidence of changes in work patterns, lacking concentration or being absent from class.

Members of staff and all members of the community must be alert to the signs of bullying at all times. Community members must act promptly and firmly against it, in accordance with the college policy. Surveys have shown that in the vast majority of bullying incidents, most people involved knew that what was going on was wrong. Sometimes people, either through lethargy, peer group pressure, or tacit support for what is going on, fail to take action. This is not acceptable and in the case of members of staff is likely to lead to disciplinary action, which could be deemed gross misconduct. All teachers and staff receive Awareness of Child Abuse and Neglect safeguarding training (Level 2).

Responsibilities

Senior Leadership Team (SLT):

- The SLT will discuss, review and endorse agreed strategies on the prevention of bullying.
- The Senior Leadership Team has a legal duty under the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 to draw up procedures to prevent bullying among students.

The SLT will:

- Ensure that all staff have an opportunity of discussing strategies and reviewing them.
- Determine the strategies and procedures.
- Discuss development of the strategies with the leadership group.
- Ensure appropriate training is available.
- Ensure that the procedures are brought to the attention of all staff, teachers, parents and students.

Pastoral Lead will:

- Be responsible for the day-to-day management of the policy and systems.
- Ensure that there are positive strategies and procedures in place to help both the bullied and bullies.
- Keep the SLT and Designated Safeguarding Lead informed of incidents.
- Determine how best to involve parents/guardians in the solution of individual problems.

All staff will:

- Know the policy and procedures.
- Be observant and ask students what is happening to them.
- Deal with incidents according to the policy.
- Never let any incidence of bullying pass by unreported, whether on-site or during an off-site activity.
- Support PSHE, citizenship and Promoting British Values.

Types of conduct to look for

1. Actual physical violence.
2. Threat of physical violence, verbally or by gesture and stance ('body language').
3. Verbal comments or taunting, generally and specifically of a racial, cultural or sexual nature.
4. Sexual harassment including peer to peer: undesired physical contact or sexually explicit comment.
5. The spreading of malicious comment and rumours.
6. Deliberate social exclusion.

Significant pointers worthy of investigation (without undue pressure) are:

1. Bruising injuries to arms or face.
2. Students who have 'lost' money.
3. Students who seem to run a lot of 'errands' for others.
4. Students who seem to be isolated from a former grouping.
5. Students giving improbable reasons for any of the above.

What to do

Should you become aware of any instance of bullying, staff members must follow the procedure below.
(Procedure is also set out in the safeguarding and child protection procedures that occur at induction).

Discuss with the student(s):

Students who feel themselves to be the victims of bullying can and must be assured:

1. That immediate steps will be taken to ensure that the bullying situation ceases, and that no recriminations follow from them reporting the circumstances. That they will not be viewed or portrayed as weak or inadequate for complaining.
2. That they will not be unduly pressurised to reveal details they do not wish to divulge.
3. That, where appropriate, we may try to bring parties together to undertake some restorative work but no pressure will be applied if they do not wish to do this.
 - i. Strategies available to staff include:
 - Supporting the victim by offering support and making it clear that what is happening to them is wrong.
 - Encouraging them to speak out on their own behalf by confronting the bully with you present, or with their permission, confront the bully yourself.
 - Accompanying the victim to a trusted adult or suggesting that you see their teacher on their behalf.
 - ii. As in any student interview situation:
 - Do not press insistently for details the student feels unwilling to give at this stage.
 - iii. Explain to the student that you will keep some information confidential except when them or some one else is at risk of harm. In this situation we may need to pass on information to other professionals.
 - iv. However, in the specific case of bullying, it is legitimate to protect the anonymity of a student who reports bullying of a third party, but not to withhold the information from the Designated Safeguarding Lead, pastoral lead or member of SLT.

Deal with the bully (see 'What Will Happen'):

Once you have established the nature of the incident and discussed it with the victim, staff must broach the subject immediately in a manner suitable to both the seriousness of the allegation and the wishes of the victim.

Report to the Designated Safeguarding Lead:

The Designated Safeguarding Lead or any deputy must then be informed about the incident and what actions have already taken. In most instances this will require a detailed written report, entered through the schools CPOMs system.

The Designated Safeguarding Lead Team will then decide whether or not to conduct an investigation or delegate the investigation to an appropriate senior member of staff.

Dealing with those accused of bullying

All attempts will be made to counsel those who bully others because:

1. They may not realise the effect their conduct has on others.
2. They may not see their actions as 'bullying' within their own cultural setting.
3. Positive behavioural modification rather than condemnation is our overall aim.

It is important to discuss the effects their behaviour is having on others with them and monitor the situation to ensure progress is being made. Be aware that there are occasions when the bullying continues but in a different, less overt manner. Regular checks should therefore be made to ensure the problem has been alleviated.

However, at all times the welfare of the bullied person(s) will be the prime consideration. Bullying is a specific breach of school rules, a breach of UK law and is subject to the standard school disciplinary procedures.

Procedure if a student should witness bullying behaviour

1. Offer the victim support and make it clear that in your opinion what you have witnessed is wrong;
2. Encourage them to speak out on their own behalf by confronting the bully with you (or their teacher or any other suitable staff member) present or, with their permission, confront the bully yourself and;
3. Ensure that they are assured that the bully is being dealt with and that there will be no further repercussions. This is particularly important if the witness was the person who reported the incident to you in the first and so could be viewed as having 'told tales' by the bully.

Counselling services available to students

Oxford International College recognises that offering counselling services to both alleged bully and victim may be an important part of the restorative process. Once an incident has been reported to the Designated Safeguarding Lead, the victim and bully will both be referred to the Senior Leadership Team and Deputy Principal Pastoral who will meet with both parties separately and devise an appropriate counselling programme.

Additionally, any student may request an appointment with a member of the Senior Leadership Team, Deputy Principal Pastoral, Designated Lead Safeguarding or a counsellor at any time should they feel they need to discuss any aspect of their life and work at the college. The college recognises that discussing any relatively minor issues when they occur may stop a more major incident occurring.

All counselling sessions shall be recorded by the Deputy Principal Pastoral and entries will be made on the student's records. Details should only be passed on to staff members who need to know the details in order to assist them to deliver the college's duty of care to its students.

ANTI-BULLYING MEASURES FOR STUDENTS

Any students who feel themselves to be the victim of bullying can bring their concerns to ANY member of staff or teacher, who will then report full details to the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

If you are the victim:

1. If you feel able to, confront the bully by verbally making them aware that you think that what they are doing is wrong;
2. Share your feelings with someone else;
3. If possible, talk to a member of staff, teacher, warden, Director of Boarding or House Parent about the incident.

Students may have a particular teacher they feel most comfortable talking to. If you would rather not go straight to a member of staff, talk to your friends, a mentor or a member of the student college council, the designated person, or any trusted adult. They may well be able to advise on an appropriate course of action or will be able to involve other people who can. There are also people outside the school who would be willing to help.

College has available a Listener whom students may contact:

Notices are widely available around the college and in boarding houses.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN?

All reported instances of bullying will be taken seriously.

The victim will be spoken to and asked to write an immediate account of events. The process for dealing with bullying will be explained clearly to them. The victim is also given the opportunity to discuss their own reactions and behaviour towards the bully. The victim is given support and advice, and counselling is suggested if deemed appropriate.

If it is clear that a bullying offence has been committed, the bully and any others involved will be interviewed individually and asked to write an immediate account of events. The process for dealing with bullying will be explained clearly to them.

Sanctions may be applied in accordance with the college's Promoting Positive Behaviour Policy.

Parents, as well as all staff, teachers and students, should know that the college will not tolerate bullying, and takes a positive approach to educating students to combat it.

Parents will be informed of the policy and procedures and the possibility of permanent exclusion following gross acts of bullying.

In very serious cases it may be necessary to make a report to the police or social services. However, it is the policy of the college to attempt to resolve such issues internally using our own disciplinary sanctions, unless the matter is of such gravity that a criminal prosecution is likely.

Reported incidents of bullying will be followed up by teachers in order to monitor that the problem has been resolved. The record of bullying offences will be reviewed by the SLT and Designated Safeguarding Lead. The pastoral/welfare teams meet weekly to check and ensure that the policy is effective.

REPORTING AND RECORDING OF BULLYING INCIDENTS

All instances of bullying must be reported by the staff member or teacher who receives the complaint to the Designated Safeguarding Lead. The report will then be entered into CPOMs and appropriate action taken.

There are criminal laws that apply to harassment, assault and threatening behaviour. If staff or teachers feel that any offence may have been committed, then it is their duty to seek assistance and inform the Designated Safeguarding Lead and SLT.

Teachers and key staff will be informed about the reported instances on a need-to-know basis in order to effectively monitor that the sanctions and procedures put into place following the incident are having the desired effect. This may well mean them discussing any on-going aspects of the incident with both the victim and bully. These discussions should be added to the incident report, until such time as the pastoral team or senior management team deem the incident to be closed with no further action being necessary.

INVESTIGATION AND MONITORING PROCEDURES

Investigation

Often the level of incident is such that it can be considered minor, recorded as such, and a watch be placed on the parties concerned to ensure there is no recurrence. In these instances, disciplinary action may still be taken against the bully, while support should always be given to the victim(s).

At times, however, it may be deemed by the Designated Safeguarding Lead/ Pastoral Lead that the incident reported is of such seriousness that they need to investigate it further. The Designated Safeguarding Lead will then conduct an investigation in person or delegate the investigation to an appropriate senior member of staff.

The findings of this investigation will be considered by the senior management team, which may call on witnesses and the staff concerned. Measures will then be taken as deemed appropriate but should be proportionately greater than those handed out for more minor incidents.

If the incident took place in the accommodation, the senior leadership team will particularly want to meet with the wardens, House Parent and Director of Boarding.

Board of Governors Annual Report

The Board of Governors will receive an annual report detailing:

- The number of bullying incidents that term.
- The age and position within the school profiles of both the bullies and the victims.

The Board of Governors will then consider the implications of the information provided including, but not restricted to, its:

- Fullness;
- Detail;
- Outcomes of investigations;
- Recurrences of bullying;
- Victims of bullying;
- Places in which bullying occurred;
- Times of day at which bullying occurred;
- and the Board of Governors will decide if any amendments are required to monitoring and investigation procedures to deal with any recurring instances of bullying which come to light, including any amendments to this policy deemed necessary.

TRAINING

The college will raise awareness of the staff through training, including restorative justice processes and will be expected to take action to reduce the risk of bullying at the times at all times in all locations.
